

Your duty to protect & support members of the school community

Online safety workshop for Governors

Recent developments within Ofsted guidelines for inspection and revisions to Keeping Children Safe in Education mean governors need to be fully aware of their duties to protect and support all members of their school.

This session, suitable for all governors, will help you to:

- Identify roles in connection with online safety
- Identify the requirements for school governors
- Discuss ways in which governors can promote and monitor online safety within school
- Identify where further support and guidance can be found to ensure governors continue to be updated on their responsibilities

“Governing bodies and proprietors should ensure children are taught about safeguarding, including online, through teaching and learning opportunities, as part of providing a broad and balanced curriculum.”

“The use of technology has become a significant component of many safeguarding issues. Child sexual exploitation; radicalisation; sexual predation: technology often provides the platform that facilitates harm. An effective approach to online safety empowers a school or college to protect and educate the whole school or college community in their use of technology and establishes mechanisms to identify, intervene in and escalate any incident where appropriate.”
